Anchor Charts

Throughout every math unit, you can use anchor charts as a visual reference to support students’ reasoning, problem solving, and thinking. Create every anchor chart with the students – actively engaging them in the learning process. Place these anchor charts around the classroom, so students can see their daily mathematical learning and use them as a reference. Every child keeps a spiral notebook containing all math anchor charts, which becomes an invaluable resource throughout the course of the year.