

Use what you have learned about stoichiometry so far to try to solve the following problem. If you don't get it, the solution will be given to you in Episode 802.

When nitrogen and hydrogen react, they form ammonia gas, which has the formula NH_3 . If 56.0 g of nitrogen are used up in the reaction, how many grams of ammonia will be produced?